

Volunteer Spotlight Joan Wagner

HOLLY CREEK

Volunteers at the various Christian Living Communities bring with them many special talents, and Joan Wagner is no exception. Joan’s attention to detail, knowledge of office protocol, and outgoing personality has made her a perfect volunteer to assist at the Concierge Desk and with numerous office tasks.

Joan began volunteering at Holly Creek over three years ago, even before we opened our doors! After a visit to a nearby business, Joan had noticed the Holly Creek marketing “trailer” that designated our new community. She walked over, knocked on the door, and Holly Creek has been the fortunate recipient of Joan’s wonderful talents ever since then!

A long-time Denver resident, Joan and her husband moved here in 1978, after spending several vacations in Colorado. They had previously lived in Philadelphia, where Joan had served as a librarian for several years. Joan brought that same careful approach to her tasks at Holly Creek.

Besides volunteering, Joan enjoys the challenging art of lace making—a true exercise in patience, given our busy society—and collecting elephants (not live) of all shapes and sizes.
